Changing byte array to short in php I am trying to change the way that my server responds to a short in the following example I am using. //testing the string values $temp1 = "1"; $temp2 = "65535"; $temp3 = "65535"; $feedback_message = "Hello"; $bytes = strlen($feedback_message); //$temp1 = "12345"; $temp1 = pack("H*", $bytes); $temp2 = pack("H*", $temp1); $temp3 = pack("H*", $temp2); echo $feedback_message.""; echo $temp1; echo ""; echo $temp2; echo ""; echo $temp3; //The server responds: "Hello" 12345 12345 12345 My question is why is this? A: I assume you want to encode the string "12345" as a short (I'm assuming this is what you were asking originally)? Short answer: Pack it the other way around. $feedback_message = "12345"; // Make it a short $feedback_message = pack("v", $feedback_message); // Convert the short to a string. The result will end in a 0 $feedback_message = dechex($feedback_message); // Send it as your message echo $feedback_message; f30f4ceada
